In this documentary the Architects describe their experience of answering to eight standard questions about the method and process they went through. At the end, an experiment with Sensory Memory was proposed, asking them to switch from the conceptual to an intimate sensory level. They re-lived the realization of the object they created but this time by remembering with their senses.

The Beauty of Books - BBC Arts Documentaries
More than just a collection of words
From philosophy, religion, art, science, politics and the rise of ideologies all the way through to fantastical fictions, books have enabled new ideas to reach eager audiences across the globe. However, they are not simply conveyors of story, knowledge and belief. Some of the most important books in the world are also stunningly beautiful, iconic masterpieces in their own right. Just as you don't judge a book by its cover alone, you don't judge a book by its story alone - the outer and inner make up the whole.

The Beauty of Books shows us that from the first bibles to medieval masterpieces like Chaucer’s Canterbury Tales, and from children’s stories such as Alice in Wonderland to the beauty of the humble paperback, this series combines human stories, expert interviews and historic archive, to reveal the astonishing, the absorbing, beauty of books.
